It would only spoil a good thing if we undertook to abbreviate the following extract from the New York Times:

Even when it began to be apparent that it was no easy matter to encircle balf a conti-nent with a wall of even baser and less costly materials than "steel and fire," and that even if the wall were made, the robels might refuse to die quietly inside of it, and might now and ed during the session were a taxation act, for to dle quietly inside of it, and might now and then break it down, the popular faith in fighting was not revived. We still clung to the notion that if the "anaconda" did not sneceed, "strategy" certainly wonld do the work; "strategy" being understood to mean a series of movements which would eventuate in such despair on the part of the rebels, that they would throw down their arms without firing a shot. UNION STAR. KY., May 1: 1863.

(For the Lonisville Democrat.) U. for O. Messrs. Editors: Will you give place in your columns for a plain men, in a piain way, to review the declaration of principles of the U for O club, No. 573, which holds its meetings in this county, in the city of Nashville? As this "club" will probably set its vigilance committee under a "seal of secresy" to find out who I am, I will inform the said "cinb" that I am. ilte-long citizen-a native of this State; that I am now loysl, have always been loyal, have never sympathized with secession, have never given aid or comfort to it, by word or deed, as many of the "club" know. And I will further state that I know the leading members of this club. I sm not a member of the club, and would probably be rejected were I to apply for membership; not because any one of

Mark my prediction: it will not be loug before these very men will deny that they ever belonged to an Abolition society, and will seek for a chance to dorge. They will probably want office again, st a time when the people can express their sentiments at the ballotbox. This club would exclude the venerable father of his country—Weshington and all the framers of the Constitution—because they were pro-slavery men. It is a painful thing to see such imputations cast at our revolutionary such imputations cast at our revolutionary tathers. In my strictures I do not desire to be offensive, but being unsecustomed to politi-cal dodges, I will of necessity seem, perhaps, But onr country is in immlueut peril, and whatever is calculated to prevent the success of the Union cause ought to be met promptly and earnestly.

DECLARATION OF PRINCIPLES OF THE NASH-"We, a portion of the loyal citizens of Tennessee, having associated curselves mader the name of the 'Nashville Union Cinb,' wishing to prevent any misapprehension relative to our objects, deem it our duty to declare to the people of the United States the leading principles and sentiments we entertain." "Wishing to prevent any misapprehension rela-tive to our objects." Were any of these men suspicioned of disloyalty? Or did they remem-ber that some of them had sought and others held office under the Considerate Course held office under the Confederate Government, and that now they preferred or desired office from the Federal Government? "We support the Constitution of the United States and cling to it as the palladium of our Good! Amen to that! But do they hold the Constitution to be an Abolition Constitution?

"We are for depriving disloyal citizens and seditions office seekers of the Northern States of sil temptation to bid for Southern votes, by establishing the policy, once for ail, that no one now in arms against the Government, or in any way lu the interest of the rubellion, and especially no disloyal siavehoider, shall ever share in ruling the destinies of this nation at the ballothox, nutil at least as much time has

"Especially no disloyal slaveholder!" Why this distinction among disloyal men? Does not every man in this State know that the non-slaveholder is just as divioyal as the slaveholder? and that one means used to fill the Secession army was the representation to slaveholder? and that one means used to fill the Secession army was the representation to the poor men that the Republican Administration intended to let the negroes go free, and place them on an equality with white men? that black negro men would be gallanting the poor men's daughters? Some of this club have made accession speeches. Did they never make such an argument? I do not charge that any one of them did make that argument, but I know they have heard it made. but I know they have heard it made.

No disjoysi slaveholder shall be allowed to vote until he is naturalized, and his family ceases to talk tressou. I. means that no slaveholder, unless he is an Abolitionist, shall vote till sisvery is abolished. And it is well known in this community that many members of this club, can not prevent their families from talking treason. Is a man to be treated from talking treason. Is a man to be treated as a rehel, because his family sympathiz a with secession? Do these gentlemen not know that a great many tinid meu (non e-mbatants) in our State, seemed to sympathise with secession, when, in fact, they did not? Did not some of the leading members of the club do so? "And inasmuch as so many of the once honored citizens of Tennessee have proved themselves recream, and mable to an proved themselves technically in-preclate a good government, we cordially in-vite the lovers of freedom in every laud to settle in our midst, and nuite with us in per-petuating the blessings of republican insitu-tions. And we do now declare it to be the tions. And we do now deciare it to be the duty of all Union men throughout the State, to exert their influence se to shape our institutions as to give every possible inducement to inamigration," means to import Abolitionists to vote for these always and excinsively Union men. Be careful, gentlemen, you do not catch in your net too many pre-slavery men. Appeint a committee to examins every man who comes into this State. The eyes of Union men of this State are upon you.

"We do most solemly sffirm, as the result of our life-long acquaintance, and of our inti-

"We do most solemly sin:m, at the result of our life-long acquaintance, and of our intimate familiarity of all its workings, that the institution of siavery tends to dishonor labor and amother enterprise; is incompatible with an intelligent public policy, sound morality, the safety and permanency of the Republic, the development of the resources of the State; that it roots on the industriens, and has the effect of lessening the free population of the country."

This quotation would require a leugthy article to show the falsity of its assumptions, and I propose, on some future occasion, to meet the statements with a full refutation. "Slavery tends to dishouor labor." This is not true in regard to Tennessee, as a few facts will show, and the length of this article will not admit more than a glance.

will show, and the length of this article will not admit more than a glance.

In looking over the list of men who have held positions of honor, we see a refutation, positive and undoubted. George W. Jques, for near twenty years a member of Congress, was a poor working mechanic—a siddler—and represented more slaves than almost any district in the State. W. T. Avery, ex-member of Congress, bossted of being a working man—a dray driver. Samuel A. Smith, ex-member of Congress, was a poor working man, who produces one of two, of ten, millions above the amount consumed, such a people are that many millions richer.

"We, therefore, hold it to be the true interest of the people of this commonwealth to abolish the institution of slavery at the earliest practicable period within which the emancipation of slaves can be effected, with safety to the slaves and justice to loyal masters."

This is the conclusion of this confession of falth. "Loyal owners!" Where is there an Abolitionist that admits that the owner of a slave can be loyal? T is would seem to have a little fairness in it—this "justice to loyal owners!" But have the rights of loyal men been respected? Where are the negroes of the loyal owners in Tennessee? How many negroes of loyal men in Tennessee? How many negroes of loyal men in Tennessee thave changed owners—changed from a Tennessee master to a master in some State North? How are these loysi men to have justice done them? Are these cinbites willing to see the slave code in this State executed? They deserve the restreet the restreet the restreet the restreet the constitution. slave code in this State executed? They de clare their adherence to the Constitution. My main objection to this U. for O. (Union for office) club is, that it has assumed as a standard a test of loyalty which is new to Tennessee and one that prevents the development of loyal sentiment in the State. It says to slaveholders in effect—"you are wicked, unchristian set; we have no confl a wicked, uncorristion set; we have no confidence in your pretensions to loyalty. You are deserving the severest punishment; you must join us to put down slavery, or he accounted rebeis," thus asking men to become Abolitionists, which was never asked of a Tennesseean before. Thus it divides the loyal men in this State into two parties—the one, Union grover—the other, essentially Abulition. Union proper—the other, essentially Abolition, We will be compelled to form a true Union ciub, whose purpose will be to restore the Union; but ask no man to be an Abolitionist. If a man is an Aboliticuist, we could not refuse him membership unless he was lu favor of letting "the Union silde" to get clear of slavery. Such a man is essentially a Seces-sionist, and conid not be admitted. slavery.

sionist, and could not be admitted.

I would anggest to Tenuesseens who may chance to read this article, and who are not Abolitionists, but true Union men, that we stand aloof from this Abolition society—this U. for O. Club—and when the people are called upon to speak at the ballot-box, we have our candidates for all offices, and if we do not rout these Abolitionlass I am greatly mist kee: and, mark my prediction, some of these men will attempt to join us, and will declare that they never meant to be Secessionists when they were nominally acting with Secession, nor Abolitionists when they jolued the Abolition society. But we have the documents against them, and if we don't make them wince then, I am no prophet.

In conclusion I will notify the clubites that we have a free exercise of the electiva fran-chise. Tennessee is grossly misrepresented, and if I am permitted to be heard in a few articles, through the press, I can and will show a few things to the Union men of Tenne: see, which will amuse and laterest them. My style may seem rather poor. I make uo pre-tensions to elegance oi diction, but only to tell plain, simple, novarnished truth. Hold on to office while you may, c.nb.tes, by appointment. You will hear some day from the people. You will have to meet competitors, wuo are neither Abolitionists nor Secessionists. [Extract from a letter dated Opelousas, May 5] After procuring corn and husking it for our horses, and breakfasting on hacon, eggs, and corn-bread, with a cup of butter milk, we started on onr way, which was through a level country sparsely wooded, and across prairies to a section known here as the pine woods. When near Chicot, our advance guard under Major Anthony captured four of the enemy's pickets, all that were on the post. Nearer the town there was another and stronger post; this the boys tried to surprise, but the rebs were on the alert, and with swift herses escaped, throwing away their guns and scattering their blankets. The Colonei with twelve men charged through the town. The enemy had fled.

Bnekland, the great naturalist, says: Betwixt the two sides of the body there seems a lack of sympathy. One cay may be looking straight forward while the other is icoking as directly backward. One may be cutirely asleep, while the other is wide awake. And this kind of independent and separate action applies to each side of the creature—to its limbs. It cannot swim, hecanse its limbs refuse to act in concert. Could the two sides understand one another, and agree upon a preacribed course of action, it might always be awake, or half awake, but it galus nothing by its unliateral independency—the two sides are like two horses that won't work in harness. It seems strange, with such a peculiarity, that on trees or terra firms the creature should be sides are fed by one mouth, and as the insect tribes refuse to come to it, so they seem, in regard to all enlinary matters, to agree to sink their differences and to move in harmony. Governor N. S. Brown worked on his father's farm, on Iudian creek, in Giles county. His father and he and one negro man worked to educate a large family of sixteen, and finally won the highest honors of the State. Gov. Andrew Johnson worked as a tailor, and glories in it now. These are only a few among a thonsaud examples that might be given in this State. The people of this State have never shown that they felt that a man was disgraced by labor, but on the contrary, the fact of their being working men gave them position. "It (slavery) smothers enterprise." This is not true in any sense whatever. It has not affected this State as relates to individuals or as a community. Ours is essentially an agricultural State, and a more prosperous body of farmers is not to be found. We do not care for large cities; they are not necessary to the prosperity of an agricultural people. Yet there is nothing in slavery to forbid the growth of cities. If it would pay to have them.

farmers is not to be found. We do not care for large cities; they are not necessary to the prosperity of an egricultural people. Yet there is nothing in slavery to forbid the growth of cities, if it would pay to have them. Look at our railroads, almost equal to the best even of the older States; our school again, our State capital, our institutions for the blind, for the insane and for the deaf and dnmb, and say is the enterprise of Tennesce "amothered."

"It is incompatible with an intelligent public policy." Our glorious revolutionary fathers did uct think so. When, pray, did these clubites make this discovery? The wealth of a country does uot consist in the unmber of its inhabitants, but in the amount produced, but on the amount of surplus produced, but on the amount of surplus produced, but on the amount of surplus produced, but of the people. But a people censure all they produce; there is no increase in the wealth of such a people. But a people that produces one or two, or ten, millions toboxe that many millions richer.

And when thus met what shall we do? What shall we say? I turn again to the Constitution—to the rock on which the Temple of Liberty is built—and sak what does that Constitution ray? What it says you, fellow-citizens, and I are willing to do. It is the rule of cur conduct and we know no other. It is a safe guide in sil cases; it leads no over no necertain grounds; it has been tried. The Constitution is all we want; we will have it as it is, without any additions. we will have it as it is, without any additions or subtractions. When I am met with a de-nial of the right of free speech, I wil come to the Constitution and ask what it says. It says the Constitution and ask what it says. It says that Congress, which is the only legislative power known to the Government, shill pass no law abridging the freedom of speech or of the press. Thus saith the book. Let that be true, though sill the world be a lar. If the Congress of the United States cannot, under the Constitution, pass any law interfering with the freedom of speech, can anybody else do lift. No. This is the house of my refuge. Hither we will came for safety. We will lay hold of the very horns of the altar, and in the name of American liberty, and with a firm reliance upon a just God, bld defiance to our persecutors.

I ask that this book may speak again in onr favor. It says that the Constitution and laws of the United States, which shall be made in pursuance thereof, are the supreme law of the it. You cannot escape this concinsion. of the perilous evils that now nuhapply One ns as a nation, consists simply in this fact. proclaiming to the world a higher law than the Constitution. I tell you that in my judg-ment he who proclaims that doctrine, and in the next breath swears to sustain the Consti-tution, is perjured in the sight of God and man. The Constitution is the supreme law.

It provides for the maintenance of these great rights of freedom—free speech, free presa— and who shall take them away from ns? Yet, my fellow-e tizens, in the face of this fact, we have been teld here, in Iudians, not merely with office for awhile. Whether you intend it we have been teld here, in Iudiana, not merely or not, you are prostrating all Unionism in this State, and as long as you define the word loyal to mean abelition and the equality of the races, it is a most despicable word to all true Uniou meu.

It semectimes seems to me as if a fevered dream had come upon this country, and as if, after a semetimes seems to me as If a fevered dream had come upon this country, and as If, after a while, we should wake up and find that we had simply been plagued with a hidcous and oppressive nightmare. But we look around us to day and the ann is shining, the air is blowing, all is real, and yet in the suddet of slittly reality, and in the noon of the nineteenth centry, we are assaulted with this most terrible, perniclous and destructive heresy—this deuial of the right of the people of a free Govment to coutrol and manage that Government

You are not to repose on flowery beds of ease, while others in times past fought to win the prize of freedom and sai ed through bloody seas. We may suffer. Some of us may languish in prison and in chains. We may feel the iron festering in our feeb, because we assert our rights as freemen. We can afford all this; but we cannot afford to live one day or one hour beneath a sense of personal absenment and disgrace. A man can die, and his memory be crowded with the benedictions of mankind; evergreens may grow about his tomb, and the lips of generatious to come may bless him. A man can die in a cause like this without grief or sorrow; but to prolong life at the expense of liberty and self-iespect, is what a prond race cannot and will never do.

There has never been a time in my experience when it was so easy to determine what was right and what was wroug. The mark is broad and plain between the two principles. As I remarked before, it is not my purpose.

As I remarked before, it is not my purpose on this occasion to discuss in detail any of national policy measures merely, but to allude to these few plain and general principles which it was due to myself, due to my country, and due to the gallant and glorious Democracy of the State of Indians, should be uttered in your hearing.

One man there would have been in our midst to-day an invited and an honored guest; one whom you all expected to see and hear upon this occasion, but that he has failen, a little sconer, perhaps, then the rest of us, a victim to the base naurpation which has taken the place of popular rights and of the Constitution. Why did the Army Retreat? A Washington correspondent of the New York World says: A fact has come to light within a few days east that has lost General Hooker what few iriends he has had in military circles since his tamous nine days' campaign to the south side of the Rappahannock and back again. It seems that after the battles of Saturday and Sunday a conucil of war was held of all the Sunday a conucil of war was held of all the corps commanders, to decide what was best to be done. When the council opened General Reynolds stretched himself npon a camp ted, with a remark to the effect that he was going to take a nap, as the decision, of course, would be to move the army ont of its intrenchments to fight Lee. And he did go to sleep, to be astonneded when he aworto with the news that General Hooker had determined to recreas the river. It seems all the corps commanders are Gen. Sickica urged the policy of at once attacking the enemy, who at that moment was moving to drive General Sickics alone proposed a retreat, and his councils prevailed against all other corps commanders. The only excuse for Hooker is that he had discovered his utter inability to handle a large army, and moreover was, perhaps, taboring under a dis of depression, such as often occars to peo-ple whose appetites for stimulants are exces-sive. This report, which is undoubtedly true, is creating much comment here. It is rumor-ed, in connection with this matter, that Geu. Sickles is to be detached from the army of the Potomac, and will shortly have his headquar-ters in New York to attend to the enrolling of the conscripts.

Figures Do Nor Lie.—The Tribune, says Lee's army, at the time Hooker crossed to give him battle, only counted 50,000 men. The Times says Hooker's army, at the same time, numbered 159,300 men. It thus appears that with more than three times Lee's army Hooker was urable to whip him in the first fight, and unable to do it with twice and a half his number of men after he got his re-anforcements. According to the statuments of the Tribune and Tim s, Hooker's loss in killed and wonnited, in the several battles, amounted

The following are extracts from Richmond papers but two days old. They were brought by trains direct from Richmond to Fredericksburg:

The Richmond Ecquirer cays: "It has been ascertained that the two main divisions of Grant's force are intreaching at Willow Springs and Rock Springs. The former place is twelve or fifteen miles from Port Gibson, at d the latter about the same distance from the former, and both situated on the Big Black, with Bayou Pierre ou the south. He is said to have established nine military stations from Grand Gulf to the present scene of his intrenchments, for the protection of his military stores in their trausit from the river.

"It is feared that Grant, while striving to make an impression on Pemberton, designs not to attack us behind our formidable interenchments, and is h'mself rapidly fortifying, provisioning and re-enforcing, and if allowed much more time, will give us bloody work when we proceed to dislodge him.

"The Federal commander is impressing the mules, horses, negroes and oxen of planters and others, with which he is rapidly fortifying his position, while the country for miles around is converted by the maranders into a blackened, barren waste. NAPOLEON AND KNAVISH CCMMISSARIES.—
Just before the great battle of Wagram, while the army was encamped on the Island of Lobau, near Vienna, Napoleca, walking one day with one of his Marshals on the abore, passed a company of grenadiers seated at their din ner. "Well, my friends," said he, "I hope yon find the wine good." "It will not make us drunk," said one; "there is our celiar," pointing to the river Dannbe. The Emperor, who had ordered a bottle of wine to each man, was surprised, and made an immediate inquiry. He found that forty thousand bottles, sent by him a few days before for the army, had been purloined and were unaccounted for by the commissaries. They were immediately brought to trial and condemned to be shot, which sen tence was speedily carried into execution.
Here was a venal offense, insignificant, indeed, when compared with the Iranda upon the urgent wanta and necessities of our soldiers recently brought to light, but it received a severe and me-fited punishment. A few such severe and merited punishment. A few such examples in our army would do a world of good. THE TYCOON'S GIFT TO PRESIDENT LINCOLY and No. 1 at 68.

President of the United States, consisting of coat of mail. The following is a description An umbreita-like helmet, of fabricated sheets of sterl and copper, shields the head, while a vandyke of interwoven silk cord and lacquered network falls gracefully upon the shoulders. The outside of the helmet is proshoulders. The outside of the helmet is projusely ornsmeuted with chrisanthemnms of gold, in beautiful open work, upon black lacquer, with now and theu a trimming of purest silk. The visor is of copper, lacquered in scarlet and brown. The armiets are of the finest copper chain work. The breastplate is of copper, intersected with psrallel strips of iacquer, and woven together with delicate wire and golden cord. A sort of kit accompanies the armor, and, with lacquered leggins, grotesquely formed, completes the set. The President has not yet found it necessary to put on this defensive armor.

OUR LOSSES IN THE LATE BATTLES.-It is now generally believed that our losses in the late battles under Hooker amounted to about seventeen thousand men. The quantities o' arms and amminition lost were immense. A correspondent of the New York Commercial

Quartermasters are looking up the losses arms and kuapsacks in the various regiments, brigades, &c., and find that they have beer very large—much greater, perhaps, than or any previous retreat. This is to be the more regretted, as they will prove to be of almost incalculable value to the enemy. Aside from the muskets and blankets, the loss of knapsacks will be most seriously felt. In addition to the forty rounds of ammunition in the cart ridge boxes, forty more were placed in the knapsacks, which were thrown away on the field, thus being a double use to the enemy. The following petition is circulating

[Special to the Cincinnati Gazette.]

CAIRO, May 22. The City of Alton has just arrived from Memphis, making the run in twenty-one hours, forty-live minutes, the fastest time on record. She brings news from Jackson, Miss, to Sunday, the 17th. Grant's headquarters were in Jackson. At that time all was going well. Immense amounts of rebel property had been destroyed, including the Statehouse and resilroads. Those well sequainted with the country and the position of the army, say Grant is perfectly secure; that he will strike for some point on the Yazo, is highly probable. He had not evacuated Jackson, as has been reported, nor have the rebels wholly abandoned Vicksburg. The whereabouts of Pemberton is yet a mystery. Teams are constantly hauling supplies from Young's Point.

The town of Greenville, Mississippl, containing about four thousand inhabitants, is in ruius. Not a buil ling is left standing.

Price and Marmadnke are reported on White river, with seven thousand troops. The rebels are said to be putting a buttery up at Friar's Point, on the Mississippl. The City of Alton has just arrived from New York, May 23. A Washington special to the Herald says that up to a late hour to-night nothing additional has been received from Grant.

News of his movements since the capture of Jackson, although from rebel sources, is regarded by the President and War Depurtment as very favorable, and indicative of a speedy triumph.

The Tribune's Washington dispatch says information was received late this evening that Grant's victories on Friday and Saturday were complete at every point. New York, May 23.

A correspondent writing from the army of the Potomac on the 21st, to the Tribune, says the rebels are in excellent condition.

A movement is on foot either to cross the river and give us battle near that point, or else cross kelly's ford and the Rappehasnock station, drive in our forces in that direction and thus compel our army to change its base. They state that Loe feels able to crush our army in its present condition, and can easily drive us into the defenses around Washington or destroy or capture it. He will probably find himself mistaken.

The railroid to Richmond is reported in complete ranning order. Large numbers of officers are leaving on farlough.

Richmond papers, of the 21st, contain details of the defeat of Pemberton, and the falling back of the entire rebel forces northward. Johnston was endeavoring to briog the rebel forces together to make a stand, but Grant pursued him so botly he was unable to and was completely outgenersied.

Latest rebel dispatches state the Grant was on the point of attacking Johnston.
